

This image shows a full-page spread of the New York Times from May 1865. The page is filled with dense, justified text in a single column. Several prominent headings are printed in large, bold, capital letters, such as "CHICAGO DAILY MARKET", "LATEST MARKET NEWS", "EXTRACT BUCHU", and "HEMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU". There are also smaller headings like "MARIAN INTELLIGENCE", "MAN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN", and "PHYSICIANS' PLEASE NOTICE". The text discusses various topics of the day, including market reports, medical treatments, and news from around the country. The paper's masthead and other column titles are visible at the top and bottom of the page.
